Management Sciences for Health, the Rockefeller Foundation, and Harvard Medical School are hosting an event - "Medicines as Part of Universal Health Coverage: Starting a Dialogue", to be held in Washington, DC, June 2 to 4, 2013. This technical workshop will explore issues relating to inclusion of medicines as part of Universal Health Coverage (UHC) schemes.

We will be providing a live webcast of key plenary sessions and invite you to view the dialogue here:

The event brings together representatives from the ministries of health and insurance schemes of nine countries - Bangladesh, Costa Rica, Ethiopia, Ghana, Mexico, Myanmar, Namibia, the Philippines, and South Africa. In addition, approximately 30 to 40 representatives of international development agencies, development partners, academia, and the private sector, including the insurance and pharmaceutical industries, will be invited to participate.

Our goal is to define needs and challenges relating to medicines coverage in UHC schemes and jointly develop potential solutions.
